

'KIMBERLY-CLARK PROFESSIONAL ROVING RESTROOM RATER' BESTOWS AWARDS FOR BEST RESTROOMS UPON SAN FRANCISCO HOTEL AND OFFICE BUILDING

SAN FRANCISCO, June 27, 2003 – The “Kimberly-Clark Professional Roving Restroom Rater” presented awards for best restrooms today to a top San Francisco hotel and office building.

San Francisco was the second city to be visited in 2003 by Kimberly-Clark Professional’s “Roving Restroom Rater,” Gordon Javna. Javna is editor-in-chief of the “Uncle John’s Bathroom Reader” series of books – designed to be read you-know-where. Other awards were presented to properties in Philadelphia.

The winning properties were:

W San Francisco. “One word: cool,” said Javna. “The neo-classical design of this hotel is very different from the more traditional properties selected this year. With its casual sophistication and bursts of color, the hotel’s artistic reinterpretation of a traditional hotel bathroom space exudes ‘fun!’ And, of course, they use only the finest bath tissue and hand towels.”

111 Sutter Street. “The restroom in this beautiful building has a warm look and feel that is very 20s,” said Javna. “But the superb way the restroom is maintained is clearly modern through and through. The restroom has high-quality hand towels and bath tissue, which is always important. As far as décor is concerned, Art Deco style sconces flank either side of the sink area. Double sinks sit in an antique, white-marble countertop with grey veining, which is in ideal condition. And, on top of it all, everything is spotless!”

The general manager and property manager of the hotel and office building received personalized Roving Restroom Rater Awards.
